

diaz paunetto models adaptive reuse through the gelm annex - designboom | architecture & design magazine

Interesting

Not Interesting

Share

diaz paunetto models adaptive reuse through the gelm annex diaz paunetto models adaptive reuse through the gelm annex image © dÍaz paunetto arquitectos, lIcall images courtesy of dÍaz paunetto arquitectos t he guarderia ecologica la mina (GELM) in corozal, puerto rico, is a campus containing several decrepit concrete structures left 20 years in abandon. upon the school's need for additional classroom spaces, the board commissioned local practice dÍaz paunetto arquitectos to take the existing concrete mass and convert it into a functional and architecturally distinct annex. the existing buiding consisted of a solid concrete lower level and CMU block second story covered by a collapsed wooden roof.

Continue Reading
designboom.com

Oct 11

1 Upvote 1 Hang

